Equifax, Experian and TransUnion are the three main credit reporting bureaus in the US. These companies collect and store information about an individuals' credit history to provide to lenders and other parties to help determine their creditworthiness. The follow are a few useful resources from the credit reporting bureaus to help monitor and protect your identity:

Credit Report: This document contains all your credit history including payments, debt and inquiries. If you see an unfamiliar account or mistake on your credit report, its time to contact the credit reporting bureaus and take identity theft protection steps. The two easiest ways to receive your free credit report:

Visit: www.annualcreditreport.com

Call: 1-877-322-8228

Credit Freeze: By placing a credit freeze, it will prevent you or anyone else from opening a new line of credit in your name. If you plan to open a new line of credit, you can use a password to unfreeze it with the credit reporting bureaus. You must contact each of the three credit bureaus to place a freeze. The freeze will last until you remove it.

Fraud Alert: A fraud alert is a notice that lasts for one (1) year that tells creditors that you might be a victim of identity theft. It instructs creditors to take extra steps to verify an identity before issuing a line of credit. To place an alert, you only need to contact one credit reporting bureau.
